

Shea Miller, writer and author of the new children's picture book, "Goodnight Lights," started writing when she realized a love for poetry and the power of words. While working in the corporate world and obtaining a Bachelor of Science degree in Business Management, she would soon discover a passion for writing children's bedtime stories. Shea created Shea Miller Books, a brand that houses her books, including other works such as the youtube channel SMB Kids TV, which hosts a collection of learning activities, and songs. These books and collections are age-appropriate stories and lesson interactions for kindergarten through second grade. She currently resides in the suburbs of Atlanta, Georgia, and enjoys designing and creating recipes in her spare time. Other works by Shea Miller include "Goodnight Blessings" and " The Mooniest Moon."
